Activities at the Baronial Investiture!!!!

November 10th

A most devious Fencing Tournament is being planned.

The first part "Are you being Served" will comprise of 2 fencers vying for the opportunity to serve a drink to their new Baroness. Each fencer will be allowed a single rapier, and have to balance a mug/goblet, chosen at random, on a buckler. Bucklers will be available for loan for those who do not own one. When the order to "serve" is announced, each fencer must try to stop the other fencer by doing one of the following (in this priority): a wound to either arm (you cannot defend yourself or you spill the drink), a kill shot, or knock the drink off the opponent's buckler. If the drink is spilled for any reason, likewise, that fencer is out. Leg wounds do not count and are ignored. In case of a close tie the first drink spilled will be the deciding factor, as voted by other fencers. Each fencer will do combat with their opponents 3 times to get a cumulative score, and there are prizes for the top 8 scores.

After the pleasantries are over and all fencers are justifiably upset about their performance, we will devolve into the next tourney, "The Vulgar Brawl." For the purpose of this event, all fencers are considered qualified in Soft Parry use. When "The Baroness has left the building!" is sounded, the mayhem begins! There will be 2 doors to enter the Bar, and there will be 2 tables available with various "weapons" that any fencer can Claim while in the Bar. You may exchange your off hand item at any time for any Qualified Weapon so long as you are alive. Each Fencer will be allowed only a single Rapier to enter the Bar, and if you wish to use any other special weapon, it must be placed on the Tables prior to the start of this tourney. Of course, any fencer may decide to claim it for themselves prior to you getting into the Brawl! The top 3 fencers in the prior phase will be in the Bar, and it is a "every fencer for himself/herself" scenario, with special rules of Death from Behind, No Quarter, No Honor, Autospawn, and Grab it and Go. Once dead, you MUST surrender your offhand weapon to the Table OR return a soft parry item on the floor to any table, NO EXCEPTIONS. Double kills count as both fencers Dead. Dead fencers must exit to the MOL, register, and reenter at either Door. If all fencers agree (and I hope so) Soft parry items that we provide can be thrown at any opponent. RBG's ARE allowed but once used, become a rigid parry device and cannot be reloaded again.

Autospawn: there will be a bell sounded every 30 seconds, signaling the next fencers to enter the Bar, one from each Door. You will respawn with a single Rapier only.

Grab it and GO: Each fencer can use ANY item on a Table, or pick up a soft parry item from the Bar floor. You can exchange your off hand item at any time, and throw the soft items whenever at whomever in the Bar. You cannot stash any weapon/item in your belt or on your person.

Death from Behind: as per melee rules.

No Honor: Any soft alliance can be made and broken at any time, and you are encouraged to be sneaky and underhanded, as well as grab any item off the Tables, even if not your own (fencers have to plan what to leave on the tables accordingly).

No Quarter: If no hold is called, do whatever is necessary to stay alive. Do whatever is needed to kill your opponents. (within SCA rules).

Honorable Behavior is the fastest pathway to getting killed. Your score will be how many times you are killed, not how many wounds you deliver. The winner will be announced as the most Devilishly Clever Fencer in Court.

from the desk of the mistress of lists

Greetings to all Ducky Gentles, safely Home From the War and Preparing to Celebrate a New Coronet...

Your Mistress of List humbly Apologizes for not getting this Report to the Chronicler in time for last Month's Viaduct.

We had a Great War, with many of our Fighters, Fencers, Throwers and Archers attaining Personal Glory. Of particular note was Surtr's Brood Member Juan Paco Sanchez for Winning the Novice Tourney.

Due to the Unusual Allotment of Combatants this year, for several Battles the Levies of The Duck were fencing against members of our usual Allies (we were fencing alongside the Coalition in order to make the sides even with the Allied Forces.) As was phrased by one of our Fencers, "We gave ourselves a good Run for our Money." All in all, the Purple team of the East, The Midrealm and the Allied Forces kicked butt, no one was badly hurt, and everyone Had Fun.

Back Home on our own Ducky Soil, Arrows and Ales saw the Passing of the Bow from Lady Onora to Lord Ruadan McPhaidin, making him our new Archery Champion. The dashing young Bjorn Bogsveigir of Northpass also deserves Honorable Mention as Highest Scoring Contestant who does not Qualify for Champion.

Previously, at our Potted Arms Event "This year's winner and new Baronial Thrown Weapons Champion is Lord Magnus Sverre Haakson. Since Lord Magnus could not stay for court, and therefore was not invested with his ceremonial regalia, Baroness Lassar took charge of it, and has contemplated an appropriate quest for Magnus as a Penance for a Champion Who has Missed Court. At Arrows and Ales Lord Magnus finally Received his Regalia, and will be Serving his Penance by Serving at High Table for Investiture in November. This announcement was well received by all, though rather Sheepishly by Lord Magnus.

Coming up in November is the Baronial Heavy List Championship, which will take place at Investiture (see pages 4-5) Good luck to all contestants. Please be reminded that one need not be able to Serve as Champion in order to Compete. The more fighters involved the more fun it is. If you are close to Qualifying in a New Weapon, or close to Achieving your Original Qualification as a Fighter (or a Fencer) you will have the opportunity to get your Qualification before the Tourney starts. You may remember reading of a Fighter who qualified last year at this event and went on to Best a Knight in his first Tourney. (It has happened before, it can happen again)

Events and Happenings

Coming Soon!!! Arts and Sciences Championship!!!

Although the date is not yet official, our Baronial Arts and Sciences Schola and Championship is only a few months away. Since it is normally held in late winter/early spring, our current Champion, Rue, has so graciously decided to post the rules for this year's competition early to give participants an adequate amount of time to complete their projects.

This year, each participant is required to create three different pieces, each representing a different A&S medium (sewing, painting, calligraphy, music, woodworking, etc.)

In addition, the three pieces must have a common theme. For example, one could embroider a rose for one piece, create an illumination including roses, and write a rose-inspired period-style song. Another example would be to carve a wooden bowl with a fish design, then have fish similarly decorate a leather pouch, along with a serving of fish.

This Championship will test participants' skills among the variety of arts as well as the creativity to create a unifying artistic theme. It should be noted that the interpretation of the theme's occurrence in the three separate pieces is up to the artisan. Documentation requirements are minimal: list the Medium, Theme, and Period-style of each piece, with a small paragraph describing the techniques used.

For additional questions, please contact Rue at firewaterpro@gmail.com

From the Coronet

reetings from Ateño & Lassar!

Summer is showing signs of retreating and the means that the annual St. Andrews event and celebration for our Barony is very close. We encourage – strongly – that you do your best to attend our last court there if you are able. Much is planned and we want to see everyone before we step down as your Baron and Baroness.

To expedite the morning activities we ask that anyone that might have business at our last court to notify our Herald, Lady Elisaid of Ayrshire via her e-mail account, ladyelisaid@yahoo.com at your leisure, but please, at least a few days before the event. Please use the subject line St. Andrews Business as she is mundanely traveling and very busy at present. And a Big hint, have your cameras ready at our court....

We understand that money has been very tight and travel; much less. Site fees are extra bites out of your take home pay. We have two ways to help:

- 1 – If you are willing to provide assistance during the feast as a server, you will be able to eat at the head cook's discretion, when you are not working. Also your feast fee will be refunded to you, upon the release by the head cook. Please let the Troll know you are planning on doing this when you arrive.

- 2 – If you feel you don't have extra funds to attend the event; there is a fund available that will pay your way. This is a gift from a Barony member who wishes to remain anonymous. We ask that you e-mail us BEFORE the event to let us know. Please know that we will also keep your name confidential and your fees will be paid before the event opens. Please, if you feel you need to take advantage of this, let us know via e-mail.

We have enjoyed being your representative to the royals and look forward to St Andrews.

Ateño and Lassar
